10.3.9 Good human relations

The health educator must be kind and sympathetic. People must accept him as their real friend. Good relationships that lead to good communication are of utmost importance in health education.

10.3.10 Comprehension

In health education, we must know the level of understanding, education and literacy of the people to whom the teaching is directed. The teaching should be within the mental capacity of the people.

10.3.11 Setting an example

The health Education should set a good example in the things he is teaching. e.g. If he is explaining the hazards of smoking, he will not be very successful, if himself smokes.

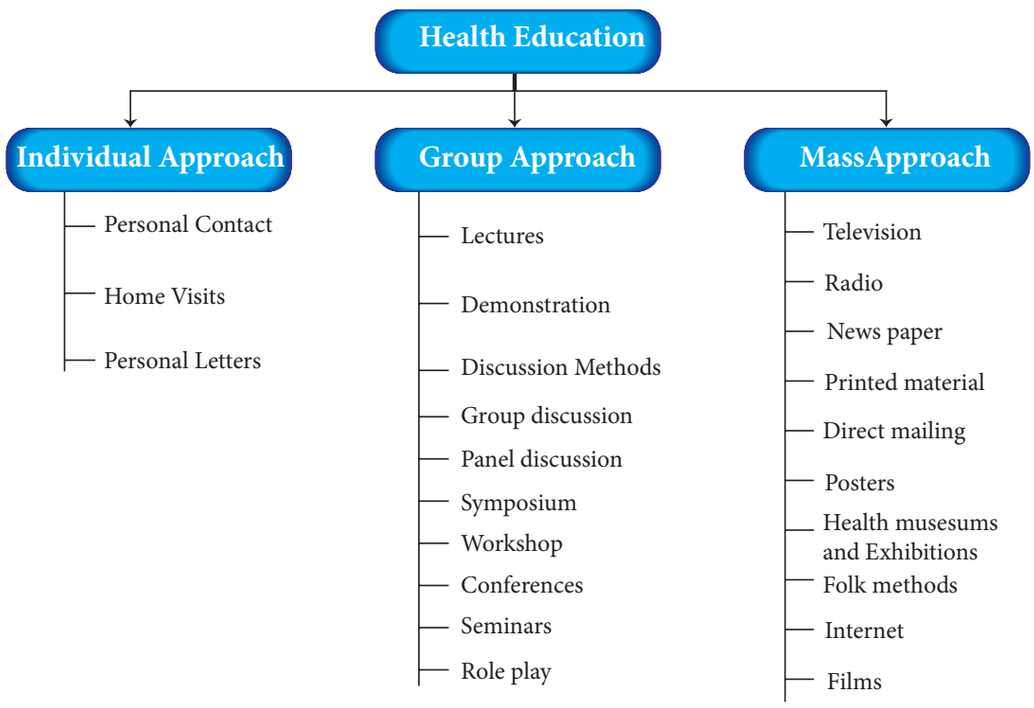

10.3.12 Feed back

It is one of the key concepts of the system's approach. For effective communication, feed back is of paramount importance.

"FOR GOOD HEALTH'S SAKE, RUN, JUMP, AND SHAKE."
