There are 5 types of communication based on levels of communication

Intrapersonal Communication

Group Communication

Public Communication

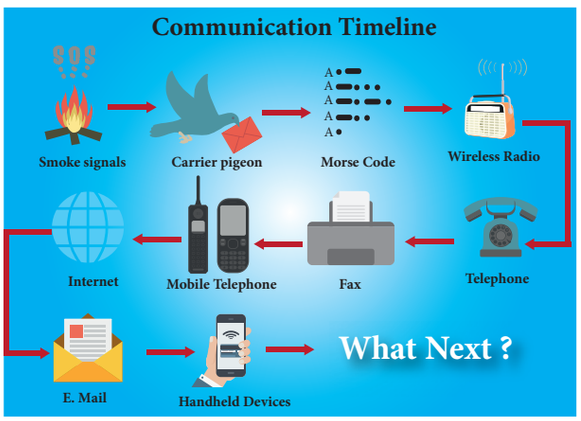

Mass Communication

Interpersonal Communication

- Intrapersonal communication is the kind of communication that occurs within us. It involves thoughts, feelings, and the way we look at ourselves
- Interpersonal communication occurs on one to one basis
- Group communication includes the communicating information that is of common interest
- Public communication is for the large group to serve the common man
- Mass communication is the transfer of messages to large group through mass media like TV, radio, newspapers, etc.,

4.3 Importance of Communication

- Helps to understand and to exchange ideas to the patient, relatives, doctors and other health care team members
- Generate trust between nurse and patients
- Reduces the interpersonal tensions and improves the interpersonal relationship
- Helps to modify nurse's behaviour
- Helps to influence others behaviour
- Prevent disorder in the ward
- Provides effective leadership

4.4 Essential Elements of Communication Process

There are five elements of communication. It includes:

- Sender is the person who encodes and delivers the message.
- Receiver is the person who receives and decodes the message.
- Message is the content of communication.

Nursing-Gen_Chapter 04.indd 50 07/05/18 12:44 PM