vi) Index: Index comprises of contents of the report and usually added after the bibliography. It is generally found in long reports.

vii) Summary: It contains the essence of findings and recommendations of the report and usually appended to facilitate its consideration by the person or superior body to whom it is submitted.

viii) Signature: All reports should be dated and signed. If it is prepared by a committee or sub-committee and the report is common, it should be signed by the chairman. If it is prepared by an individual, it has to be signed by the reporter.

10.3.5 Quality of the Good Report:

Many types of reports are written daily in organisation. Some of them are intended to document the progress of some activities i.e., feasibility reports, investigation reports, some of the reports are for monitoring purposes, some are evaluation reports but it is clear that all the reports have some objective and purpose behind it. That objective and purpose can only be achieved if a report has following features or characteristics:

1. Precise: The purpose of the report should be clearly defined. Precision of a report provides the unity to the report and makes it a valuable document for best usage.

2. Accuracy of Facts: Information contained in a report must be based on accurate fact. Since decisions are taken on the basis of reported information, any inaccurate information or statistics will lead to wrong decision. It will cause delay in achieving the organizational goal.

3. Relevancy: The facts presented in the report should be relevant. Irrelevant facts make a report confusing and likely to mislead decision making.

4. Reader-Oriented: A report is read by various stake holders. A good report is always reader oriented. Reader's knowledge and level of understanding should be considered while writing the report. If the report is reader-friendly, it is easy to read, remember and act on it.

5. Simple Language: A report should be written in a simple language, avoiding jargons and technical words for easy and clear understanding. The message of a good report should be self-explanatory.

6. Conciseness: A report should be brief and not be very long. Lengthy reports affect the reader's interest. Rather it means that a good report is one that transmits maximum information with minimum words and completes in all respects.

7. Grammatically Accurate: A good report should be free from grammatical errors. Any faulty construction of a sentence may make its meaning different to the reader's mind and sometimes it may become confusing or ambiguous.

8. Unbiased: Recommendations made at the end of a report should be impartial
