4. Identification of Records: They help to identify records and facilitate filing for future reference.

4.3.5. Advantages of Office Forms:

1. It simplifies office methods and procedures.
2. It reduces cost of office operations by reducing the amount of manual or machine writing and thereby increasing the output of each worker.
3. Office forms are useful where it is desirable to fix responsibility for work done.
4. Business information can be received or collected, recorded, processed and transmitted in a systematic and efficient way with the help of office forms

4.3.6. Factors to be Considered in Forms Designing:

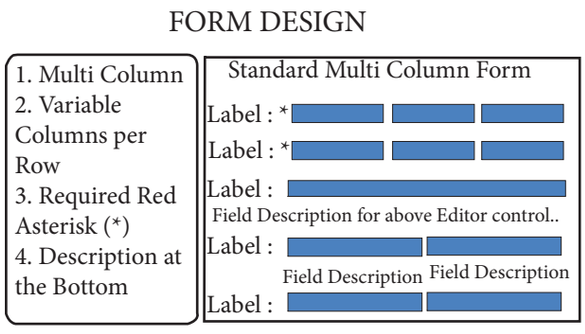

Fig.4.7. Form Design

Following are the factors to be considered while designing office forms:

1. Forms must be designed according to the purpose of their use: The general purpose of a form is to make clerical work easier than what it would be if a blank paper was used.
2. Forms should be easy to use: The manner in which a form will be used must be kept in view while designing the forms and choosing the quality of paper for its printing. A form which is to be used on a typewriter or on a book-keeping machine should be so designed that it may have minimum number of starting places for the typist.
3. The design of forms should be simple and facilitate the use: A simple design generally makes the form more convenient to use. The design should enable the placing of matter to be easily done.
4. Each type of form should bear a title and number: To use a form, one must refer to it by a title or number. The title of the form should be standardised and printed at the top. It should be clearly descriptive but short. The form title is more easily remembered by the clerks than the serial number.
5. The size of the form should be decided in accordance with the purpose in view: There is no hard and fast rule regarding the exact size of a form.
6. The type face for printing forms should be clear and distinct for purposes of reading: The form designer has to keep in view the type- face for printing so as to make the printed form neat and compact.
7. The right type of paper should be selected for every form: The printing, typing or writing impression desired will determine the quality of paper suited for the purpose. The appearance
