9.8.3 Shyness

Shyness is a psychological state that causes a person to feel discomfort in social situations in ways that interfere with enjoyment or that cause avoidance of social contacts altogether.

American Psychological Association (APA-2012) defined Shyness as the tendency to feel awkward, worried or tense during social encounters, especially with unfamiliar people.

Shyness is the fear of negative judgment and introversion.

9.8.3.1 Causes of shyness

- Less chances to meet people or less interaction with them.
- Insecurity / lack of confidence.
- Overprotection.
- Criticizing child in front of others

9.8.3.2 Symptoms of Shyness

- Blushing (cheeks turn red), feeling anxious
- Heart beats fast
- Sweating
- Feeling mind has gone blank
- Trembling
- headache

Effective strategies to overcome shyness

1. Act confidently
2. When you meet someone focus all your attention on the other person.
3. Try new things even if they make you anxious
4. Be mindful
5. Talk freely
6. Engage yourself in any activity.

9.8.4 Loneliness

Loneliness is a complex and usually unpleasant emotional response to isolation. Loneliness typically includes anxious feelings about lack of connection or communication with other beings, both in the present and extending into the future.

9.8.4.1 Symptoms of Loneliness

- Physical Symptoms - aches and pains
- Mental health conditions - increased risk of depression, anxiety, panic attacks
- Low Energy - tiredness or lack of motivation

Chapter9_206-233.indd 224 31-01-2019 15:37:19