9.8.4.2 Causes of Loneliness

- Lack of social skills
- Lack of interest in other people
- Lack of empathy
- High self criticism
- Failure to disclose information about themselves
- Lack of sense of community

9.8.4.3.Coping with Loneliness

1. Think about what is making you lonely.
2. Talk freely
3. Take time to develop personal interests that you may not have had time for before.
4. Make new connections
5. Try a new recreational activity. Exercise and physical activity will increase your energy and help you to feel better about yourself.
6. Work on developing relationships with others. Avoid impulsive, desperate and clingy behaviours that tend to drive others away.
7. Work on your listening and communication skills.
8. Present a positive image.

9.8.5 Coping with Anger

Anger is a normal, usually healthy emotion. But when it turns destructive it can affect the very quality of our lives. Anger can be caused by external events, for instance getting angry with your friend or colleague and internal which is often triggered by unhappy memories or by worrying and brooding.

> Anger is a strong accompaniment to depression
