

- Early man used Quartzite, a type of stone for making tools and weapons.
- A type of stone called Flint stone was used to produce fire.

Nomadic Life

Early humans did not know to grow crops. They wandered in all the landscapes in search of food. They ate whatever they got and drank water from natural sources. This kind of life was called nomadic life. They wore skins of animals, leaves and barks of trees to cover their body. They lived in caves and holes of big trees.

Stones were sharpened as tools by them. They made it with the help of other stones too. These sharp tools were used to hunt animals and tear their flesh.

They used bones, horns, stones, skin, branches of trees and sticks as their tools and weapons. This stage of development in history was called New stone age or Neolithic age.

5th_Social_Science_TERM-I_UNIT-2.indd 154 2/25/2020 12:10:38 PM