Serving of Food in Indian Cuisine

- Etiquette of Indian dining varies with the region in India.
- Both in urban and rural settings Indians wash their hands thoroughly prior to dining, and then eat with their fingers, without any cutlery.
- Traditionally Indians sit on the floor while eating.
- Main dish (rice or chappathi), surrounded with other dishes are served on 'Thali' – a plate laid with banana leaf or stitched leaf.
- There will be dishes that are crunch, soft, dry, moist, rough and smooth.
- Garnishes are very simple such as sprinkling chopped coriander leaves or grated carrots and nuts.
- After a meal, it is common to serve small cardamom seeds with their husks, aniseeds and betel nuts.

III. International Cuisine: International cuisine means the different cooking practices around the world. Each country has its own cuisine and each cuisine is an art in itself. A global cuisine that is practiced around the world and can be categorized according to the common use of major food stuffs. In order to become a global cuisine a local, regional and national cuisine must spread around the world.

There have been significant improvements and advances during the last century in food preservation, storage, shipping and production and today many countries, cities and regions have access to their traditional cuisines and many other global cuisine.

Some of the most popular International cuisines include French, Chinese, Italian and Mexican. Most countries have a well-known famous dish or ingredient that is associated with the cuisine.

Courses of Menu

In a full course menu, for example in a French cuisine, the dinner consists of multiple dishes or courses. In its simplest form, it consists of 3 or 4 courses such as appetizers, fish, entrée (main course) and dessert.
