We can use our scientific work to improve the human social condition.

CONCLUSION

Where sociology mainly focuses on the interaction of people, psychology has a tendency to deal with human emotions. Ultimately, there are a thousand ways that psychology and sociology relate to and enhance each other to assist people in mastering why people behave and interact as they do. These two fields with different approaches will provide you a wide range of knowledge regarding human service, social work, healthcare, and even business.

In this chapter we have discussed about the psychology and sociology which will help the nurses to understand the patient and their families and help them to come out of the health problem. This aspect will meet the holistic nursing care component.
