Students' cooperative stores, Cooperative provision stores and supermarkets set up on cooperative societies of India are examples of this type.

B. Producers Cooperatives

Producer cooperatives are established and operated by producers. Producers can decide to work together or as separate entities to help increase marketing possibilities and production efficiency. They are organized to process, market, and distribute their own products. This helps lessen costs and strains in each area with a mutual benefit to each producer.

Example,
Cooperative weavers' societies, Cooperative carpenting units, Cooperative match factories.

C. Marketing Cooperatives

Cooperative marketing societies are associations of small producers formed for the purpose of marketing their produce. The marketing cooperatives perform certain marketing functions such as grading, warehousing, advertising etc., They secure better prices for their members by transporting goods even to distant markets. Advance is also given to members against produce deposited with the society. Thus they are a boon to agriculturists, small producers and artisans, who in the absence of these cooperatives would be forced to sell at low prices to middlemen.

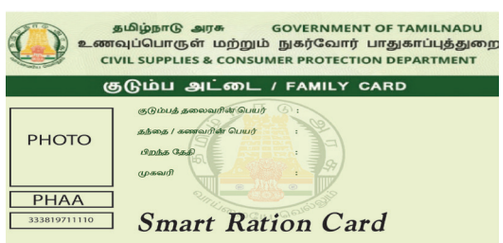

D. Credit Cooperatives

Cooperative credit societies are those formed for the purpose of providing short-term financial help to their members. Agriculturists, artisans, industrial workers, salaried employees, etc., form these credit societies. Being unable to obtain financial accommodation from banks they are at the mercy of money-lenders who charge exorbitant rates of interest. Ending this exploitation and encouraging thrift among members is the objective of these societies. Credit societies may be agricultural credit societies or non-agricultural credit societies.
