as well as to institutional stakeholders. This accountability differs depending on the organizations and whether the decision is internal or external to an organization.

ix. Strategic Vision

Leaders and the public have a broad and long-term perspective on good governance and human development, along with a sense of what is needed for such development. There is also an understanding of the historical, cultural and social complexities in which that perspective is grounded.

6.8 How to evaluate the performance of a government?

It is difficult to evaluate the performance of a government with uni-factor analysis; the actual assessment can be done only after considering various aspects of governance, namely Socio, Cultural, Political, Economic, and Environmental factors. To evaluate the performance of a government the following factors can be considered.

Socio Cultural factors

- Gender Parity Index
- Religious Freedom
- Equality Based on caste
- Protection of religious and Linguistic Minority Rights
- Gender Budgeting

Political factors

- Effective functioning of Democracy
- Free and fair elections
- Corruption free Politics and Administration
- Transparency in Administration
- Independent Press
- Independent Judiciary
- Human Rights

Economic factors

- Human Development Index (HDI)
- Gross Domestic Product (GDP)
- Purchasing Power Parity (PPP)
- Growth Vs Development
- Equal Distribution of Wealth

Environmental factors

- Sustainable Development Goals
- National Action Plan for Climate change(NAPC)
- Green Budget
- Disaster management

Gross National Happiness (GNH):

Gross National Happiness is a developing philosophy as well as an "index" which is used to measure the collective happiness in any specific nation. The Concept was first mentioned in the constitution of Bhutan, which was enacted on 18 July 2008.

The term "gross national happiness" was coined by the fourth king of Bhutan, Jigme Singye Wangchuck, in the 1970sThe GNH's central tenants are: "Sustainable and equitable socio-economic development; environmental conservation; preservation and promotion of culture; and good governance".

GNH is distinguishable by for example valuing collective happiness as the goal of governance, and by emphasizing harmony with nature and traditional values.
