DO YOU KNOW?

ARISTOTLE ON HAPPINESS

Aristotle believed that happiness was the most important thing in life. He taught that one should not waste one's time in the pursuits of pleasure, but should seek happiness instead. According to him, true happiness lay not in material things, but in understanding one's true nature, and regaling one's full potential. In short, happiness depends upon ourselves, and not on the outside world. One of Aristotle's most famous quotes is

"...happiness is the meaning and the purpose of life, the whole aim and end of human existence..."

CONVERSATION

Student: Sir, we make a mention of Greek Thinkers like Plato and Aristotle in our discussion about the study of politics. In the Indian context, who is considered the first political thinker?

Teacher: In the Indian context, Thiruvalluvar, the author of Thirukkural, the ancient legal text, is considered as one of the first political thinker.

Student: Sir! It is very interesting to know that an ancient Tamil literature seems to be the first political manual in India.

Teacher: Though Kautilya, who was the author of Arthasastra, wrote his book in 300BCE that book concentrated more on the Political Economy, while the Thirukkural of Thiruvalluvar concentrated more on Political governance.

Student: Oh is it! Sir! Will you please say something about Kautilya!

Teacher: With Pleasure! Kautilya, was the chief Minister of Chandra Gupta Mauryia, who ruled a North Indian State about 300 BCE wrote the book Arthasastra, which literally means Artha=wealth and Sastra=knowledge. In short a first literary source on political economy.
